County board approves gifted student program

By RICH ADAMS

The Hancock County School Board
Friday approved initiation of a pilot program for gifted and talented students, the first such program in South Mississippi, according to Superintendent Billy D. Sills.

The program will be initiated at the Hancock North Central campus next year, and if successful, will be started in all district schools during the 1981-1982 school year, Sills reported at the recess meeting Friday morning.

The superintendent said the program will not cost the district any money, explaining federal funds are available for the pilot program.

State Program Coordinator Harlan
Hill was responsible for obtaining federal funding for the program, Sills added.

"If a third grader is reading at a sixth grade level, he is considered gifted and will be given the additional challenge of completing reading work at sixth and seventh grade levels," Sills explained.

"The gifted child must be challenged to his top capacity. We must meet his needs, as we must meet the needs of all children in the district," he added.
Board President Woodrow Ladner
asked if the gifted and talented children will be separated from the class into a class of their own.

"No, a teacher will offer that student extra reading material at a higher class level," Sills replied.

Also at Friday's meeting, 16th Section
Land Coordinator Terry Randolph
asked the board to sponsor a 16th Section land conference, the first ever held in the state.

According to Randolph, the Secretary of State and his staff, members of the Attorney General's staff, the State School Board Association, the State Department of Accreditation, and members of the Research and Development Center have committed themselves to attend the September 15, 16, and 17 seminar at Diamondhead.

"This is needed to familiarize school boards and superintendents throughout the state with changes in the 16th Section land law of 1978," Randolph told the board.

"The seminar will cover auditing and accounting, leasing, some 250 attorney general's opinions, and general discussion of 16th Section leases," he continued.

"16th Section land leasing is moving slowly in most counties in the state. The Hancock County School District is a leader in the state in this area. We adopted policy covering this subject before the law was adopted," Randolph

added.

Sills suggested the district supply a school bus to take visiting school board members and superintendents to schools in the county to show them progress.

The superintendent also suggested a fish fry as part of the seminar.

Board Member Johnny Banks moved that the board sponsor the seminar, which was seconded by Louie Ladner and approved by the board.

Randolph also suggested the board pickup truck which was towing a welding machine.

"The welding machine was stolen from behind T.G. & Y. Family Center in Waveland from Roy Anderson Construction Co.," Dorn confirmed Friday morning.

Yarborough pulled up behind the pickup, got out of his patrol car and as he was walking up to the Stricklin vehicle when the pickup truck took off eastward on US-90," Dorn said.

"Yarborough got back in his car and followed the Stricklin's in hot pursuit," Dorn added.

"The patrolman chased Stricklin on US-90 then northward on Hwy. 603 where State Highway Patrolman Curtis Newman of Long Beach joined the chase," Dorn stated.

"On Hwy. 603 Stricklin allegedly opened fire on Newman but he was not injured and his car wasn't hit," the police chief reported.

"Stricklin turned east on I-10 and then turned south on Menge Avenue north of Pass Christian," Dorn said.

"Stricklin sped down I-10 at about 95 miles-per-hour, towing the welding machine," Dorn added.

Dorn said Harrison County Sheriff's Department deputies and another highway patrolman joined the chase.

Harrison County Sheriff Howard L. Hobbs said Friday morning, "Stricklin turned from Menge north on Beat Line Road then turned on Red Creek Road where Stricklin allegedly opened fire on Yarborough."

Yarborough explained Friday morning, "I thought a rock had come in the window and hit me so I just kept on chasing the pickup truck."

"Then I touched my neck and discovered blood all over my neck. So I stopped for a moment then drove myself to the Gulfport Hospital emergency room," Yarborough reported.

Dorn said, "Newman saw Yarborough on Gulfside Drive and for borough stop, but he thought he had shooting at the highway patrolman."

"We arrested Kenneth Stricklin before for allegedly making purchases with a stolen credit cards and I believe he's now on probation in connection with those charges," Dorn said.

"Right now, I don't know how many other charges we'll come up with against him," the police chief added.

Hobbs reported, "Kenneth Stricklin was previously charged in Harrison County for forgery, and the St. Tammany Parish Sheriff's Department and the Sildell Police Department were looking for him."

Yarborough said, "My doctor did an exploratory operation, but I think he's decided to leave the bullet in my neck."

A hospital spokesman said, "Yarborough and Stricklin are both in satisfactory condition and both men will be discharged in a day or two."

"Carol Stricklin was also charged with assaulting Yarborough, Smith and Harrison County Deputy Felix Brown and is in Harrison County Jail," Hobbs reported.

"A preliminary hearing of the case has not been set," Hobbs added.

Dorn reports, "In addition, we will charge Stricklin with the theft of the welding machine, burglary of a

Supervisors endorse Bay Legion pier work

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors, at its regular meeting Tuesday morning, voted to endorse the proposed expansion and repair of the American Legion riprap pier at Washington Avenue.

American Legion representative Joseph Benvenuti of Bay St. Louis requested the supervisor's endorsement at the 9 a.m. meeting.

"We want to repair pier damage from recent storms," Benvenuti added.

The endorsement preceded a Wednesday night Bureau of Marine Resources hearing on permits requested by the Legion post for the expansion.

The bureau hearing was slated in the County Courthouse Board Room.

The pier has been closed and a suit was filed against the Legion, Bay St. Louis, and the County Supervisors by several beachfront residents.

Residents charge that the jetty is hindering the natural ebb and flow of tides causing a silting problem on the north side of the pier.

Correction

In a recent article in the Sea Coast Echo on Southern Association accreditation, Hancock North Central was inadvertently omitted as school which have attained regional accreditation.

Also, in a report of a new vacation agency called Vacationquest, which operates from Nell Frisbie's Real Estate office, it was reported that one-week vacations each year are available at any of six resort areas. It should have read two-weeks per year at any of the six locations.

The Echo regrets these errors.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

By Edmond Fahey III

To say, "I hope it will happen, but I'm sure it won't" is the first step to doom and defeat. Hope is a matter of proper thinking; positive thinking. It is an attitude conditioned by the mind.

Hopelessness can only occur when we give up hope itself. When one gives up hope, one gives up spiritual nutrition. Despair and hope are sure to follow... Defeat is admitted... The possibility of success or triumph is rejected. Spirits spiral downward...

Frustrations are a fact of life for all of us. But frustrations are always worsened when hopefulness does not exist. Hope is the best antidote for the poison of discouragement. Look around you. You will always find the hopeful person feels better, looks better, acts better than the hopeless person. All of us have been born with an instinct to hope. Develop it. Don't discard it...

"This plant will be a landmark in our industry. It is based on the newest technology available for making ABS plastics. It easily meets or exceeds all local, state and federal regulations for air quality," he stated.

"The basic manufacturing process is a closed system. It is so advanced that it will only produce a minimal amount of liquid wastes. These will be taken to approved disposal areas. This means we will have no waste-water discharge into the Pearl River," Kowal continued.

This plant will be a showcase for the manufacture of plastics, he predicted.

"The ABS plastics manufactured here will go into a number of consumer products, including telephones, refrigerators, appliances and automobiles. Some of it will return to Hancock County because all major U.S. manufacturers of these products use ABS. Borg-Warner is the largest supplier of ABS in the U.S."

Kowal continued: "We expect the 100 or so employees who will work at the plant will have a significant impact on the local economy. We know, for example, that at Parkersburg, W. Va., each dollar earned by our employees turns over six times in the community.

Besides payroll, there are other dollar spent with local suppliers and services.

"This means about $12 million per year will be added to Hancock County when the plant is operational.

"The question we hear most often is 'How do I get a job with Borg-Warner?'"

We plan to establish an employment office in the county. We will keep everyone informed about applications through the local news media.

"We expect to begin evaluating applications early next year.

"I want to take this opportunity to again thank all of you who have made our participation at Port Blenville a reality. You can be proud of your community, or should I say we can be proud of our community because we are now officially an industrial citizen of Hancock County.

Kellar stated, "This is a milestone for Hancock County. We the Board of Supervisors will help Borg-Warner in any way we can and I am sure the people of Hancock County feel the same way."

Governor Winter said, "This is a good day for Mississippi. We feel it is a good day for Borg-Warner and we will help them in any way we can."

Mrs. Winter accompanied Governor Winter.

Mrs. Lucy Ondrejka, Bay St. Louis artist was recognized for her painting of the Hancock County Courthouse which was used on the cover of the press kits for the occasion.

The painting was presented to Kellar, the president of the board of supervisors by Kowal to be hung in the Hancock County Courthouse.

Refreshments were served and Borg-Warner caps were given to everyone and balloons to the kids.

Several hundred attended the ceremonies held under clear skies.

Honorable Rubie Griffin, Circuit Judge acted as master of ceremonies. Nathan Barber, Pastor First Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis gave the 'invocation' with Father Austin Walsh, Pastor Annunciation Catholic Church giving the benediction.

Members of Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 did the flag raising while the National Anthem was played by the Keesler NCOIC Drum and Bugle Corps.

Traffic direction was handled by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Compromise may be answer to pier dilemma

There could possibly be a solution to the disagreement between the parties involved with the American Legion Pier.

The public hearing Wednesday night was well attended and every person there felt his views were correct even if they were the complete opposite of someone else's.

We have to commend the many persons who spoke their piece, as the majority of them controlled their emotions.

Several comments about the opponents were made which should have never been said, just like one lady's comments about the American Legion should never have been said.

We are a small community, and there is reason for us to be split on issues, but they can possibly be settled by compromise.

There seems to be a tendency that some folks opposed to the American Legion pier feel that a cut through the structure near the water's edge would eliminate some of the soft muddy bottom in the area.

Whether this will work or not, we cannot say one way or the other because we are not experts on the subject.

We feel that the American Legion could suggest the construction of a break 50 or 100 feet long.

Some people may have the idea that the permit applied for would create a harbor similar to the one in Pass Christian or Long Beach. That is not the case at all.

The requested permit is for the reconstruction of the wooden pier with a ten foot extension in width on both ends. It also requests permission to construct a breakwater as protection for the boat launch on the right hand side of the pier to protect boaters from the prevailing winds.

We need a boat launch in Bay St. Louis. There is one already constructed at the end of the pier or rock pile as some refer to it.

Through cooperation of parties on both sides we feel there is and should be a possible solution.

There has never been any charge to the public by the American Legion for use of the boat launch, it is something free to the public. It could be used and enjoyed by all parties, and, we feel, be a big asset for the City of Bay St. Louis.

Think about our youth, middle age, senior citizens, residents and visitors alike - there is a dire need for a boat launch.

Bits 'n pieces

A Waveland Policeman could have lost his life Wednesday night when he was fired upon and hit during a high speed chase.

We are in full agreement with Mayor John Longo that the person charged with the alleged shooting of this Waveland officer should be prosecuted by District Attorney Albert Necaise to the fullest extent of the law.

We are a group of small Communities in Hancock County, and just about everyone knows each other.

Our police are hired to protect us from the criminals and the majority of major crimes committed in our county are done by those from elsewhere.

There is a much repeated saying that you can get by with murder in Hancock County, well in this case we sure hope that will not be the case.

We hope the district attorney, as the saying goes, 'throws the book' at the person charged with trying to 'wipe out' one who is here to protect us.

We have a very good friend, who was crippled many years ago when he was working as a Waveland policeman. To our knowledge it was never learned as to just what happened to him. He could have been chasing a criminal at the time.

We have to take care of those who are here to look after our well being.

The public hearing Wednesday night had very good attendance. We were happy to see so many folks demonstrate a civic interest.

The thing which seems to gripe us is the fact that the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce did not have anyone speaking on behalf of it as to whether or not the American Legion should be issued the permit to extend the public facility at the head of Washington Street.

We hope the chamber will at least send a comment to the Bureau of Marine Resources, P.O. Box 959, Long Beach, before June 20, 1980.

Any person interested one way or the other as to whether the permit should be issued are urged to express their opinions in writing to the Bureau of Marine Resources.

Henry Otis, Circuit Clerk was all smiles in talking about the improvements in getting election returns together with the new voting procedures.

We realize it was a light vote, but we can never recall all returns and tallies being made by 7:35 p.m. ever before when the polls close at 6 p.m.

We have to commend the Hancock County Board of Supervisors on their foresight in the purchase of the new voting system.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL - THE STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

REAPPRAISAL REACTIONS NOTED - Some county government officials are responding to the Legislature's property reappraisal action, initiating moves toward more equitable property taxation in their counties.

With the Governor's signature barely dry on the optional reappraisal bill passed during the 1980 session and the Supreme Court hearing on a Hinds County Chancery Court decision mandating statewide reappraisal by 1983 scheduled soon, one North Mississippi county in particular is taking a close look at its tax rolls - and finding wide discrepancies.

A county official is reported to have said that after a search of the tax rolls, they are unable to determine that any formula has ever been used or pattern followed in determining the value of real property for tax purposes.

Other findings include: - Houses of equal value located within a short distance of each other valued at different amounts for tax purposes.

- New homes built to replace older ones without changes made on the rolls.

- Additions made to buildings without tax roll changes.

- That same county is taking steps to correct the situation. But what of others in the state?

The state's system of property taxation has been described as the weakest part of the tax system despite the fact that the State Constitution provides that "taxation shall be uniform and equal throughout the state. Property shall be taxed in proportion to its value." State statutes also require the Tax Commission to examine tax rolls from all counties to assure that assessments are equalized among the counties on the various types of property.

But the Constitution and Tax Commission review requirements have largely been ignored.

Statewide reappraisal and equalization of taxes is necessary for the economic advancement of the state.

ELIMINATE ESTATE TAX

Washington Report

By REP. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

In 1916, the U.S. Congress enacted one of the most absurd laws ever to come down the legislative chute. It is, by definition, a tax on widows and children.

It is called the estate tax, and I propose that it be eliminated.

Since its inception and enactment, the estate tax has been an acute aggravation for many Americans, both poor and wealthy. Its intent may have been to re-distribute wealth, but it has actually served to make the poor poorer rather than richer.

The estate tax amounts to triple taxation. The earnings are taxed first as part of the individual's income tax liability. The second tax is inflation, which eats away at the earnings. The third tax comes when an individual commits that last taxable act - he dies.

My good friend and House colleague Congressman Phil Crane, R-Illinois, made some excellent points on the estate tax recently when the Republican Platform Committee held hearings in Chicago. The committee, of which I am vice chairman, received testimony on several national issues, including taxes, the economy and defense.

Congressman Crane spoke about the impact of our nation's progressive income tax and the estate tax, and why they are counter-productive and con-fiscatory.

"These taxes penalize holders of wealth to some degree, but protect them more, both from themselves and from competition of others who might otherwise wish to gain more wealth," he said. "A severe obstacle is thrown in the path of the poor hoping to rise."

"In the case of the estate tax, less wealth is invested in the future or bequeathed to future generations," he said. "Less capital, less investment, less production, less wealth, less, less, less."

Congressman Crane also pointed out the destructive role inflation plays in the estate tax area. He said a taxable estate of $5,000 would have been taxed $150 in 1941. That same estate would have been worth $15,000 in 1976 and taxed $1,110.

As he said, the real loser in this game of taxing estates is not the rich, who can afford attorneys to develop trusts and other legal means of keeping taxes to a minimum. The real losers are small businessmen and farmers.

Since most of their estates are tied up in land or business inventories, the business or farm must often be dismantled and sold to pay the tax.

For these reasons, I support elimination of the estate tax. Death should not be a taxable event.

The Bottom Line

Candid Answers To Your Questions About Advertising and Business Topics.

By S. GALE DENLEY
Associate Professor of Journalism
University of Mississippi

With the recession apparently well upon us, how much should I cut back on our ad budget? I Don't Want To Take Any Chances.

Dear AC: If you are afraid of chances, don't cut at all.

A recent study, reported in ADVERTISING AGS, found that companies that did not cut their ad budgets during the 1974-75 recession significantly outperformed companies that did cut back during the two year period.

And by 1978 the growth of those who refused to give in was much more dramatic. The study, done by the Laboratory of Advertising Performance, a division of McGraw-Hill Research, found that companies not reducing their ad budgets experienced sales growth averaging 12 per cent more than companies who had reduced ad spending in either of the two recession years.

And by 1978, the study found, companies not cutting back during the two recession years had sales 132 per cent above 1973 levels. Those companies who cut back during the recession showed sales in 1978 of only 78 per cent over the 1973 level.

Of the durable goods manufacturers analyzed in the report those who did not reduce ad spending realized a 163 per cent sales growth from 1973 to 1978. Those that cut back grew only 63 per cent.

But the most dramatic variation was in machinery, where the steady advertisers grew 185 per cent during the five year period, while those who reduced advertising during the two year recession period grew only 104 per cent in the five years.

Among non-durable goods advertisers, the ones that did not let up had grown 96 per cent in the five year time span, while the faint-hearted grew only by 75 per cent in the same period.

So the recession of the 70s was an opportunity for those who took advantage of the situation. They simply got a jump on the market, because their competition decided to sit out.

Next week we'll discuss a second part or your question - how can you afford to promote when sales are slow?

What's the difference in a recession and a depression, anyway? Can You Explain This? Either, of course, refers to a slowdown in the economy, and the term "recession" was coined during the recovery years following the Great Depression to minimize the public reaction to reoccurring slow-downs. But someone once explained it this way: Recession is when all your friends have lost their jobs. Depression is when you lose yours.

Canine virus epidemic here probable

BULLETIN
Dr. H.W. LeBourgeois said late Saturday afternoon he received two canine patients suffering what he believes to be Parvo virus infection. "This is just a timebomb waiting to go off. There have been epidemics in other Southern states, and one is bound to occur here," LeBourgeois said Saturday afternoon.

"I received two cases of what I am almost sure is Parvo virus today. The dogs were boarded, in out-of-state kennels and now, four days later, are almost dead. We have an entire population of non-immunized dogs here just waiting for this thing to explode," he continued.

"I recommend all dog owners have their dogs immunized immediately. This is not panic alert, but if a dog contracts this disease, it may cost the owner between $50 to $150 to treat the dog," he added.

LeBourgeois warned all owners going on vacation and planning to place their pets in kennels to have the animals immunized immediately.

By RICH ADAMS
A recently discovered canine disease, a strain of the Parvo virus, may be spreading toward South Mississippi from Texas and Louisiana, according to Hancock County Veterinarians H.W. LeBourgeois and Robert P. Akers.

The virus affects mice, rats, rabbits, mink, cats dogs, swine and cattle, the doctors reported Friday, and one case of the canine virus has been documented in Pass Christian.

The disease was discovered in 1978, according to LeBourgeois, owner of the Waveland Small Animal Hospital, and is presently being treated with feline vaccine.

Dogs suffer an infection in the small intestine, which leads to dehydration and eventually shock and death, the veterinarians reported.

Both doctors say the need for pet owners to have their dogs vaccinated is essential. The vaccination consists of two initial shots, three weeks apart, and a yearly booster.

LeBourgeois explained a massive outbreak of the disease recently affected dogs in Texas, and cases in non-epidemic proportions have been noted in Louisiana.

The doctors say scientists have not determined if the disease is a mutant of a cat disease, and LeBourgeois said animals may contract the virus through stools of infected animals.

Symptoms of the disease are initially clay-colored stools, vomiting, and loss of appetite.

Later stages of the virus infection are diarrhea mixed with blood and dehydration, the veterinarians report. The dog's temperature will also increase to 104-106 degrees, they added. LeBourgeois said the symptom which separates the new disease from other canine maladies is a depression in the white blood cell count.

This may only be determined with a blood test, he added.

"After contracting the disease, if not treated, the dog will probably die within 48 to 72 hours," LeBourgeois noted.

"Weaning puppies are most susceptible to the virus, but it can affect adult dogs," he continued.

"The vaccination is certainly worth the price. With this type of disease, if the dog is not treated right away, it will die within two or three days," he added.

Akers said Friday he is trying to notify the owners of his patients to have their dogs vaccinated against the disease.

"If I were to get a case, all I could do is treat it intently with dextrose and glucose. I know no other treatment," Akers said.

Akers added he knew of no cases of humans being infected with the canine virus.

Both veterinarians said there is no immediate danger of an outbreak of the disease.

"There is no immediate outbreak, but it would serve us well to have as many dogs as possible vaccinated, especially if the owners show their dogs or are planning to place them in a kennel," LeBourgeois said.

Coast Guard Auxiliary

plans safety exams

Free courtesy motorboat examinations will be offered by Flotilla 35, U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, today at the Gulfport, Long Beach and Pass Christian launching ramps from 9 a.m. to noon.

Safe boating information booths will be set up at each location and personnel available to answer questions and distribute brochures relating to safe boating in our area.

A fully equipped auxiliary facility will be on display at each ramp and will be open to the public for examination.

These are the boats which are called out by the Coast Guard for search and rescue emergencies and for routine safety patrols.

June 8 marks the conclusion of National Safe Boating Week and area boat owners are urged to avail themselves of these courtesy motorboat examinations. Bay man recovering in Ohio

By RICH ADAMS
Richard St. Pe of Bay St. Louis was listed in 'fair condition' at Riverside Hospital in Columbus, Ohio Saturday where he is recovering from injuries sustained during a car-train accident in Delaware, Ohio.

St. Pe, 60, an employee of Crown Equipment Company of Bay St. Louis, was a passenger in a car driven by Glenn Way of Delaware when the two were struck by a train while crossing the tracks on May 24. The mishap occurred in an industrial complex in Delaware, according to Delaware Police Sergeant Phil Terry.

Both St. Pe and Way were taken to Grady Memorial Hospital in Delaware for treatment of injuries, and were later transferred to Riverside, according to Terry.

Terry reported St. Pe sustained a number of broken bones, but added he had no additional information concerning the injuries.

A spokesman at Riverside Hospital said Saturday St. Pe is in 'fair condition after a good night of rest,' but would not elaborate on his injuries.

An airman at Keesler Air Force Base was listed in stable condition at Keesler Hospital in Biloxi with a broken collarbone and lacerations to the head and shoulder after he apparently lost control of his motorcycle on US-90 in Henderson Point Friday night.

A spokesman for the Mississippi Highway Patrol said Saturday that Rudy D. Morris, 18, PSC5, Box 8123, Denver, Colorado, apparently "went too fast for conditions" about one mile west of Pass Christian, resulting in the mishap.

A spokesman at Keesler Hospital said Saturday Morris is in "stable condition."

Highway Patrolman Gerald Berry is investigating officer in the mishap. Mobile Medic transported Morris to the hospital.

Spanish Acres seeks bonded indebtedness hike

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Charles Hirstius, spokesman for the Spanish Acres Citizens gave indication his group will push for raising the bonding indebtedness of the City of Bay St. Louis by petitioning for a bond issue.

The monies would be used not only for the Spanish Acres Subdivision but the entire City, Hirstius said.

The petition for referendum presented to the Council was as follows:

PETITION FOR REFERENDUM

"We, the undersigned qualified electors in the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, do hereby petition the City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis, to call for and election on the question of sum of ($500,000) FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

Said monies are to be used for the express purpose of a master plan for drainage within the corporate limits of the City of Bay St. Louis, and are to be expended only in conjunction with matching or participating funds made available by either County, State or Federal Programs, thereby increasing the total funds available for the furtherance of said master plan for drainage within the corporate limits of the City of Bay St. Louis, by at least the sum of the proposed bonded indebtedness."

There was a lengthy discussion as to whether the sum would be enough at today's cost to do the entire city. Hirstius then said his group may try for an open amount on the referendum.

The spokesman for the subdivision read a chapter in the Mississippi Code which said it wasn't really necessary for a petition to be submitted for a referendum as the City Council could do so itself.

Kelly McQueen, city clerk, mentioned that the bonded indebtedness of Bay St. Louis was not too much and that he would check out the limits of a bond issue the city could handle.

In other business, council took under advisement three bids on the 1979 Small Cities Project.

Site Construction company's bid was $214,155 with and alternate deduct of $25,074; Southland Enterprise, $191,965; with alternate deduct of $11,701; with a third bid by Magnolia Construction's bids of $195,633 and deduct of $27,860. Site is from Moss Point, Southland, Gulfport and Magnolia of Baton Rouge. The Council chaired by Harry Farve, vice-president, in the absence of president Pete Benvenuti due to death of his brother, voted unanimously to take the bids under advisement for study by Brown Engineers, Inc.

The project involves the 500 blocks of St. John, Main, State and deMontluzin Streets for the upgrading of water and sewerage services.

Council authorized Mayor Larry Bennett to repair two more sewer cave-ins. The cave-ins are in the 600 block of Citizen and 700 block of St. Francis.

Board attorney Joseph Gex gave a report on the second exit in Spanish Acres and that he was in contact with the parents of the property owner and they should see him before the weekend.

Serious sewer cave-ins are waiting for a second exit in the subdivision so the residents can have an access when the work is being performed.

Council was unanimous in the naming of Coast Electric Employee Bob Occhi to the electrical board upon recommendation of Mayor Bennett.

Occhi replaces Willard Ladrone who resigned due to illness.

Part Five-Child Abuse

Three agencies can help in child abuse situations

EDITORS NOTE: This is the final installment in our series on child abuse. Previous articles reported an increase in Hancock County's child abuse cases and explored this problem from the standpoint of individuals who encounter abused families, the abusing parents and the abused child. Our final article will suggest ways help may be found based on information from Dr. Catherine Lundy of Waveland, psychologist and coordinator of Hancock County services for the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center and Wallace Bradley of Waveland, Hancock County Welfare Department director.

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
There are three agencies available to Hancock County residents which will help in child abuse cases. These agencies are the Mississippi Department of Public Welfare, the Hancock County Welfare Department, and the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center.

The Mississippi Welfare Department has a child abuse hot line which is 1-800-222-8000.

Wallace Bradley of Waveland, Hancock County Welfare Department director reports, "When the State Welfare Department receives a child abuse call, a trained social worker will screen cases and if immediate action is needed they will get in touch with us."

"All reports are confidential unless the courts decide testimony is important to the proceedings," Bradley says.

"We keep all information confidential, but when we have a court action calling for removal of a child from a home we may need testimony from the person reporting abuse," Bradley explains.

"People can report abuse cases directly to our office where we have three social workers who deal with cases of neglect or abuse," Bradley says.

The telephone number for the local Welfare Department offices, located on Necaise Avenue in Bay St. Louis, is 467-4565.

"The statewide hot line began in 1977. In 1978, some 789 calls were handled and in 1979 over 1,217 child abuse calls were received," Bradley adds.

Dr. Catherine Lundy of Waveland, psychologist and coordinator of Hancock County services for the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center offers advice to parents who suspect they are abusing their children.

"A mother who wants to get help from our office, but has to stay home to take care of a child could work it out with a neighbor to take care of her child for a few hours," Dr. Lundy suggests.

"If you feel drinking is causing you to abuse your children, cut out the drinking," Dr. Lundy says.

"Look at your lifestyle and look at what factors are contributing to a faulty interaction with your child. Parents should explore their own interests and develop themselves as a person," the psychologist explains.

"Talking helps and talking with friends especially if you don't have any friends, make friends develop support systems for yourself and your family," Dr. Lundy reports.

"Sometimes someone like an older aunt may be very helpful in counseling a young mother," Dr. Lundy adds.

"We have a 'Parents Anonymous' group that can work with parents who are abusing their children. Parents can also come by or call the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center," Dr. Lundy suggests.

The telephone number for the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center's Hancock County office is 467-1881.

The Mental Health Center also has a 24-hour toll free Gulfport number which is 1-863-1132.

Dr. Lundy reports, "A person can always walk into the Gulfport office of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center and on Tuesdays and Thursdays the Hancock County office is open."

The Hancock County office is located behind Hancock Industries on US-90 in Bay St. Louis.

sure, I figured I would notify the fire department too. On my way I waved down a Waveland Police car and they told me the fire was already reported," Russell added.

John Watzke, owner of the supermarket, stated Saturday, "I would like to thank all the fire department personnel and customers and friends who helped through the fire. I would also like to thank my customers for their patronage, and I will reopen as soon as possible."

Lizana reported the fire was their fifth run of the day and added another later in the night.

"We started the day off by checking all the fire hydrants on Beach Boulevard to see if they worked properly and cleared the grass and weeds around them."

"We received many calls from the residents of the 500 block of Washington about the dust, so we watered down the street," Lizana continued.

The Bay's third run was for a VW on fire on Necaise. The next call was for a woods fire behind some houses in Spanish Acres Subdivision. The last call was at 9:38 p.m. for a broken gas meter on St. Francis.

Reports of the grocery store fire went to Bay St. Louis and Waveland, according to Lizana.

Anne Peneguy worked as pump operator during the blaze and Rusty Price, Waveland fireman, handled the packs with Waveland's Fire Marshall Lee Ferrell handling the fire hydrant.

"We had plenty of water available to fight the blaze. The first thing we had to do was to find the origin of the fire before we could begin to control it," Lizana said.

Waveland Fire Chief Kenneth Fayard was coming back from Louisiana when the alarm was sounded.

He said, "We were just reaching the Mississippi line when we heard Mrs. Maurigi (dispatcher) give the alarm."

Douglas Williams, chief of the Bay St. Louis police department was at the scene helping keep spectators back. The store was guarded by police Friday night.

Lizana said he escorted Robert Boudin, CD director, to the scene with an emergency generator so the owners could salvage stock in the store Friday night.

The roof burned through in one section of the store and there appeared to be some smoke and water damage to the contents.

"The water lines in the building were of plastic and the heat caused them to melt and cause quite a bit of water," Lizana commented.

Traffic control was maintained by Bay and Waveland police and Hancock County Sheriff's Department deputies. Bay firemen Robert Gavagnie and Arthur Farve suffered some smoke inhalation with Clermont Harbor fireman G. Jackson singeing his face, Lizana said.

"This was a total cooperation of the Hancock County Firemen's Association in bringing this fire under control. Police have to be commended for their quick action," Lizana commented Saturday.

Watzke said he had contractors out yesterday and added, "We hope to reopen the gasoline pumps and a portion of the store by Monday or Tuesday with a small amount of stock."

Citizens spill out of both doors of the Hancock County Courthouse courtroom during pier permit hearing Wednesday

(Staff photos-Ellis Cuevas)

Public turnout overwhelmingly favors Legion pier improvement

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Some 200 persons jammed the Hancock County Courthouse Wednesday night at a public hearing by the Bureau of Marine Resources on a permit application from the American Legion to improve the Washington Street pier.

Joseph I. Gill Jr., who conducted the hearing, said at the end, "This was the largest crowd I have ever seen in nine years for a public hearing. It was also the most responsive and I have to say we like to see participation like this at hearings."

A total of 50 people were recognized and allowed to speak during the three hour hearing.

The front and back stair landings to the courtroom were jammed with people backed down both stairways with the doors of the courtroom open.

About 10 people voiced opposition to the permit requested by the American Legion to restore a wooden pier with 10-foot extensions on both ends and the construction of a jetty to protect the boat launch.

In the neighborhood of 40 persons spoke in favor of the Legion and urged approval of the permit.

Those expressing opinions were from school age to retired persons, newcomers to lifelong residents.

Joseph Benvenuti, attorney represented Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139. Henry Laird, attorney represented the opponents.

Both attorneys made opening comments followed by opponents and proponents of issuance of the permit. Mr. Gertrude Stanton, an opponent of the pier stated, "Hurricanes Camille and Betsy both picked up chunks of concrete and it knocked out foundations of houses. Why wasn't the pier rebuilt after Bob and Frederick?"

Louis Fernandez, said he was representing the Board of Health, Historical Society and the Gun and Rod Club, spoke in favor of the proposal.

He said, "I am in favor of this extension. Historically there was an oyster factory where big schooners came in and other commercial fishing boats in years gone by. I think the pier should remain."

Waldo Otis commented, "Yes, there was an oyster factory out there. There is a difference between a pier and an earthen structure. The structure changes the ebb and flow of the tide. I sink up to my knees in the mud. We asked for a cut and they haven't done anything yet."

Eugene Richardson, surveyor, displayed a survey which showed the structure as being within the property lines of the Legion.

Some of the opponents had mentioned that the pier was encroaching on their riparian rights.

Luke Scianna who lived at 103 Washington Street for 23 years talked about how he had used the old pier to launch his boat.

Scianna said the jetty would help protect the boat launch and that it was needed. Two of Scianna's children also spoke of how they enjoyed fishing and crabbing from the launch.

Fred Wagner, an opponent to the issuance of the permit said, "It disturbs me to see the difference of opinions of the two groups. I respect the American Legion. There is a definite need for a boat launch. I object to the location at the head of Washington Street."

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett presented a resolution by the Council in support of the issuance of the permit.

Margaret Gavagnie stated, "It makes my heart bring tears to my eyes when so few people can stop us from having the pier."

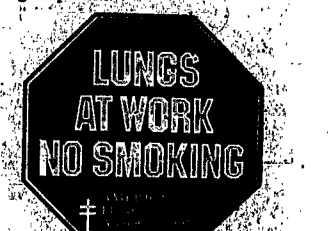

Elizabeth Sullivan Holleman said, "As a kid I fished on the shell pile and we have pictures to prove that. Children cannot swim in the water because of the pier, why won't they move it to a commercial area?"

Dick Thomas said, speaking as an individual, "We are the only community on the coast without a boat launch. I am for the issuance of the permit to the American Legion."

Gill, the Marine Projects Manager and conductor of the hearing said interested parties could send in written comments until June 20, 1989 and they would be included in the hearing.

The information will be studied and then a decision will be issued.

Persons interested in making comments can send them to: Bureau of Marine Resources, P.O. Box 659, Long Beach, Ms. 39560 and marked attention Legion permit.

Cubans bumping veterans from Florida VA hospitals

A White House directive which authorizes Cuban refugees to occupy beds at the Veterans Administration medical center in Tampa, Fla., while sick and disabled ex-GI's are being denied treatment, has drawn outraged criticism from the 670,000-member Disabled American Veterans, according to James Walthour of Catahoula Community, commander of Bay St. Louis DAV No. 50.

The Carter Administration has ordered the Tampa VA medical center to reserve 40 hospital beds for ailing Cuban refugees. The VA medical center in Gainesville, Fla., has been told to reserve 50 medical and surgical beds for this purpose.

On Monday, while 13 Cuban refugees were occupying beds on the Tampa VA facility's psychiatric wards, two American veterans applying for resulted psychiatric care were denied admission due to lack of beds in the hospital's psychiatric care section.

The Tampa VA hospital has been hit particularly hard by Carter Administration budget policies in recent years. Underfunding and understaffing at the hospital were causing denial of treatment to many eligible Tampa veterans long before the massive influx of Cuban refugees into Florida began.

While this situation has its parallels at VA health care facilities across the United States, the problem in Tampa became so severe a year ago that the DAV and a number of VA physicians, themselves, called public attention to it, Walthour noted.

A headline in the Tampa Tribune-Times on June 24, 1979, stated that "Staff Doctors Call Some VA Policies Medical Malpractice."

A few of the physicians went so far as to charge that some veterans had died because of these policies, which American veterans applying for resulted psychiatric care were denied admission due to lack of beds in the hospital's psychiatric care section.

"I'm astonished by the gross insensitivity of giving priority medical care in VA facilities to undocumented allens at a time when men and women who fought in our nation's wars are being turned away at the door," said VA National Commander Paul L. Thompson.

He noted that the situation could only become worse as more Cubans enter VA hospitals, filling the beds allotted to them.

The DAV learned that Carter Administration officials have contacted other VA medical centers in Florida, searching for hospital beds in which to place Cuban refugees requiring medical attention.

"This is a clear indication of how the Carter Administration really feels about the nation's commitment to its war veterans-how its policies have become the complete opposite of what they should be," said Thompson.

"To show humanitarian concern for the refugees is one thing, but how much humanitarian concern has the Carter Administration shown for sick and disabled veterans needing health services from the VA during the last 3 1/2 years? None!"

The private health care sector currently has 130,000 empty hospital beds, and DAV leaders are asking why the Carter Administration is not using these beds - rather than the already overburdened VA system-to treat the Cubans.

Rev. Larry Bradley

Waveland Assembly associate to pastor new Hwy. 603 group

Reverend Larry E. Bradley, associate pastor of Waveland Assembly of God, is first pastor of the newly-organized Faith Assembly serving the northern end of Hancock County.

Faith Assembly is located temporarily at the Agape Center on Hwy. 603, just south of the Hancock North Central school.

Bradley has issued an open invitation to the church's special opening day service at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, June 15th, to be followed by dinner on the grounds and an afternoon of fellowship, gospel singing and fun.

Prior to the opening day services, Bradley will conduct a special prayer service at the Agape Center Tuesday and Thursday evenings this week.

"Members and all interested persons are urged to attend; to fast and pray for the success of the new church," the pastor said.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Collier, Agape Center owners, have donated the use of their building, and scheduled services will be held there every Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. Sunday School at 9:45 a.m.

Sunday Evangelistic Service at 11 a.m., and Worship Service at 7 p.m. every Sunday.

Bradley, his wife Jo Ann and their two sons Kevin and Eddie reside at 831 Old Spanish Trail, Waveland. They moved to this area from Oklahoma in February, 1979 when he joined the Waveland First Assembly.

Prior to that time, he pastored the Bel Aire Assembly of God Church in Gulfport and the First Assembly of God Church in Okeene, Oklahoma.

He attended Southwestern Bible College in Texas, Jeff Davis Junior College in Gulfport and is a graduate of the Berea Bible School.

He was ordained a full minister in the Assemblies of God in 1976.

Mrs. Bradley is a native

THE KIND OF WORLD we will have tomorrow depends upon the kind of young people we have today! All of us should be profoundly interested in our young people.

"I have written unto you, young men, because ye are strong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one" (1 John 2:14), is the admonition of the apostle John.

"Neglect not the gift that is in thee," is the timely counsel of Paul to young Timothy (1 Tim. 4:14).

For some time I have cherished a brief squib sent to me by a friend. I have read it again and again. I do not know who the author is; but it rings a bell with me in tones which blesses my heart every time I read it. I wish to share it with the readers of this column this week.

"What is a square?" the heading asks.

"Everybody knows a few squares. I know one. He's that strong polite, god-fearing young fellow who freely admits that he prays, weeps for joy, plays with little kids, kisses his mother, goes to his Dad for advice, and thinks old folks are great. He wears clothes that fit him, puts savings in the bank, has his hair neatly groomed, likes school, can't imitate all the television comics, avoids dirty discussion about sex-he even blushes. He goes to church, drinks milk, drives within the speed limit, is in bed by 12, doesn't smoke, and expects purity in girls.

As a result of his unusual behavior, he suffers the loss of gang companionship; but he gains the gratitude and admiration of his parents, family and teachers, has an unjaded imagination, and enjoys spiritual perception. To some he may seem a strange fellow, but I like him!"

"Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth..." is the wise counsel of King Solomon (Ecc. 12:1).

Again he says, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favor rather than silver and gold" (Prov. 22:1).

Newcomers plan Tuesday meeting

The Gulf Coast Newcomers Club will meet on Tuesday at the Admiral Benbow, US-90, Biloxi for its monthly luncheon.

Social hour will begin at 11 a.m.

Guest speaker will be Ed Mitchell of the Service Corps

Pass man graduates with honors

The graduating class from Gulf Coast Junior College's Perkinston Campus was told Sunday night that commencement should not be considered the end, but in the words of Winston Churchill, "the beginning of the end."

The speaker was Dr. Richard Miller, chairman of the science department at Perkinston. He spoke to a class of 144, including one with a perfect 4.0 academic record. Miller told the graduates "education is a continual process and we continually gain education throughout life," adding, "Wisdom is the essence of education." He challenged the class to become involved in the world and take an active part shaping their future.

"We just can't live," he said. "We must be alive." Addressing her classmates, Carol Gray of Ocean Springs said as they enter the new decade "we must show that patriotism is not dead, but only asleep." She called on their support to find answers to current problems noting that "in this way we can become a part of the solution and not an extension of the problem."

Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Gray, finished with a 4.0 average. She served as president of Phi Theta Kappa and was a co-head Perketette during her sophomore year.

Special honor graduates included: Timothy Ladner of Pass Christian. Associate degrees and certificates were conferred by GCJC President J.J. Hayden Jr. Candidates were presented by Perkinston Campus Executive Dean Clyde E. Strickland.

Dr. Hayden gave the welcome and Baptist Student Union President Sherrie Levens of Gulfport delivered the invocation and benediction.

USM honors local students

The President's List, at the University of Southern Mississippi, requiring a 4.0 Grade point average (all A's) has just been released and shows a number of area students:
